High School French for the Middle School

On December 17, the French National Honor Society visited their eight grade counterparts at George Washington Middle School.

Co-Presidents Olivia Szymanski and Kristen Schretter and members Haley Driscoll, Leigh Plasil, and Christian Seremetis visited the middle school to give a presentation about holiday and winter traditions in France and other francophone countries. The students were taught about food, cultural figures, and celebrations during the holidays.

The high school students also answered questions about the French program at RHS. The French National Honor Society will be visiting eighth grade students at Benjamin Franklin Middle School in March. This was the first high school French trip to the middle school, but it was a great success.

A Window Into Ridgewood High School

Students in Dan DaSilva's design class took part in the Snowflake Challenge to design the best flake.

Students in Ernestina Gagliano's foods classes started the break off right by making holiday treats such as, thumbprint cookies and chocolate truffles.

Ridgewood High School Bands Blitz Day

Students from the Ridgewood High School Bands will be selling fruit door-to-door for their annual Blitz Day, in which the goal is to reach every Ridgewood family selling navel oranges, red grapefruit, and a mixed box of apples and pears is also offered. If residents are not at home, they have the option to fill out order forms left at their door until January 29.

Post-blitz orders go to Eileen Karanikolas (33 Lenox Ave. Ridgewood, NJ 07450). Inquiries can be made to Eileen@jvk.com.

Below: Project interact displays the socks they collected for Lieutenant Governor Guadagno's #RockYourSocks Campaign.

Thanks to the efforts of Ridgewood students, parents, and staff we collected 874 pairs of socks to help homeless NJ youths.
